Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 24 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain or showers for many.

This Evening and Tonight:
Showers across central England, some heavy, moving southeastwards. More persistent rain across Scotland and Northern Ireland also moving southeastwards to affect parts of England and Wales. Turning windy and much cooler in the north.

Friday:
Rain soon clearing the south but persisting across parts of Scotland and northern England where it will feel much cooler in strong winds. Brighter elsewhere but some heavy showers developing.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Rather cloudy with areas of rain and showers sinking south. These could be heavy, especially in the south. Drier, settled weather gradually moving in from the north. Temperatures around average.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.